if overfunding of pension plans can lead to raids

then it is a strong motive for the firm to reduce contributions!

reduction employees might be in lieu of wage? If so then it

1987 law

would be preferable to a reduction of employer contributions!

OECD?

Also this: New employees will not be willing to pay the earlier established rate of contributions which leads to increasing overfunding if the rate of interest has increased!

It will be difficult to discriminate between old and new employees!!
