

If there is no long term memory my arguments about what rules do not hold,

i.e. that in vectors are discouraged by the observation that what has been low for 6 or 8 years,

One could imagine a simple behavioural rule:

If the business men see that even when the boom comes and goes fast, the response is not used more than a fairly unsatisfactory level, then they will be discouraged.